ANNUAL REPORT 2021-2022

Learning Political Science as a degree in college is not merely advantageous but fundamentally necessary in today's interconnected and politically complex world. It provides a comprehensive understanding of how political systems operate, including the structures of government, decision-making processes, and the dynamics of power. This knowledge is essential for citizens to engage meaningfully in democratic processes, advocate for policy changes, and participate effectively in governance

Department of Political Science offered UG courses in Political Science. Department focused upon the overall development of the students and to develop a good civic culture in them. The students are given grounding in the basic concepts and ideas regarding human rights, issues of globalization, and their realization at the grassroots levels, collective and individual experiences of these issues. Students are encouraged to relate theoretical and academic discussions to their everyday experiences and to act constructively in particular issues around them.

Department of Political Science organized workshop, seminar, webinars, lecture series and also provided online and offline lectures in order to develop potential skills to the students. In order to keep curriculum up to date and relevant, department revised teaching and learning activities.

The department conducted student seminar presentation, peer to peer learning, group discussion, etc. to foster the skills of the students. The student centric teaching and regular programme like workshop created an environment that provide confidence, clear political perspectives and critical observation in the students. Department of Political Science provided advanced learning facilities to slow learners and provide more opportunities to advanced learners

Department also provided complementary courses in World History and Economics. It provides an interdisciplinary study and analysis to the students. By completing the program, the students are equipped with a wide range of knowledge in political system, political philosophy, and administration and also in other areas. In addition, the Department offered audit courses in variety of subjects such as environment studies, disaster management, human rights and gender studies. These courses provided students a wide knowledge and a comprehensive understanding of contemporary issues.

Department of Political Science enrich our students with theoretical aspects in Political Science as well as actual political happening through various programs. Our faculties strive to make our students a good civic person and also a vigilant political observer and academician. Our team is always being available for solving the queries of our students.

Department of Political Science provide a holistic education in order to nurture the intellectual, social and personnel development of the student. For this, apart from the curriculum activities we organize seminar, debate, group discussion, lecture series, supplementary learning projects, etc. All this helps the students to gain more practical experience, and make them active citizens. We also keep our students up to date with all the social happenings.

Department of Political Science also develop a range of extra-curricular activities, like clubs (debate club, social club), sports team and teams for arts, which provide students with wide range of opportunities to develop their leadership, teamwork and communication skill. We are committed to fostering a culture of excellence, innovation and lifelong learning that prepares our graduate to become leaders and change makers in this social world.

PRINCIPAL
AKKAI FAROOK ARTS & SCIENCE COLLEGE
PARAPPUR(P.O) - 676 503

for ensuring the continuous enhancement and advancement of academic excellence within institutions.

UPKEEP OF TEACHERS DIARY

Every faculty member in the political science department has diligently maintained their respective teacher's diary up-to-date. This ensures that a comprehensive and accurate record of their academic and administrative activities is available for assessment and improvement purposes. They regularly update their lesson plans, outlining the Curriculum Content, teaching methodology, and assessment strategies. They also members record their assigned duties and responsibilities, including committees memberships, administrative tasks, and extracurricular activities. This promotes transparency and accountability in the department's functioning.

Students are effectively engaged and continued their learning during the absence of regular faculty members. The department adopted comprehensive approach that involved engaging students with other qualified faculty members. Highly competent and experienced substitute faculties were assigned to conduct the classes during the leave period. Additionally, students made frequent visits to the department's bookshelves, taking advantage of the diverse collection of political science literatures and reference materials.

STUDENT ATTENDANCE MONITORING AND MENTORING BY ADVISORS

The Political Science has implemented an efficient class monitoring system that involves regular assessment, class observations and feedback sessions to gauge student progress. The system ensures that student performance is closely monitored and appropriate interventions are made when necessary.

- The mentoring programme in the Political Science department places a crucial role in providing personalized guidance and support to students. Each advisor is assigned a group of students to mentor throughout the academic year. The mentors actively engage with their mentees, discussing their academic goals, strengths and areas of improvement.
- The Political Science department keeps a comprehensive record of levels taken by students to monitor their attendance and identify patterns that may affect their academic performance. Early intervention measures are taken when students show a consistent pattern of absenteeism.

Prof. M. ABDUL AZEEZ
PRINCIPAL
TAKKAL FAROOK ARTS & SCIENCE COLLEGE
PARAPPUR(P.O) - 676 503

- Regular communication with parents is key aspect of the mentoring programme. Advisors regularly update parents on their child's progress, areas for improvement and overall wellbeing. This collaborative approach fosters a strong support system for students, leading to improved learning outcomes.

SUPPLEMENTAL LEARNING

Political Science department implemented supplemental learning systems to provide additional support and enrichment to students. There are two essential components of the systems: Peer Tutoring and the role of advanced learners in facilitating supplemental learning. This initiatives aim to foster the role advanced learners in facilitating supplemental learning. The initiatives aim to foster a conducive learning environment that caters to the diverse needs of the students and promote collaborative learning within the department.

Peer Tutoring: The political Science department has established a peer tutoring programme to enable students to receive academic assistance from their peers who excel in specific subject or skill. Peer tutors are carefully selected based on their academic achievements, communication skills and willingness to help others. The peer tutoring sessions provide one-on-one or small group support to struggling

1. MENTORING FOR STUDENTS

Mentoring has been a necessity to resolve problems relating to academics and other related issues faced by students. It is required for the students to achieve emotional stability and to promote clarity in thinking and decision – making for overall programme. Each teacher is assigned certain number of students for mentoring. They meet at regular interval to discuss, clarify and share various problems which may be personal, domestic and academic. The Mentoring can build healthy relationship between the students and teachers in building their discipline, Performance and also positive growth of the students.

The students were continuously mentored regarding their academics. They were motivated and continuously encouraged to seek help from teachers for the subjects in which are weak. Mentors encouraged students to participate in all co-curricular and inter-class events to help them develop confidence. After each internal the students of each mentor take notes of their progress in their learning and prepare them better for the end semester examinations.

- Special Mentoring: Extra time for Exams- The special students who needed extra time was mentored and with the help of the office of examinations extra time was provided both for mid-semester and end-semester exams.
- Mentoring For Weak Subjects: The students were continuously mentored regarding their academics. They were motivated and continuously encouraged to seek help from the teachers of the subjects in which they are weak.
- Encouragement to Participate in Association and Cultural Activities

The students were constantly encouraged to participate in all the co-curricular and inter-class events to help them develop self-confidence.

- Mid Semester Result Analysis: Result analysis of Mid-semester exams of the special students was done separately to know their performance. It was found that compared to the first year, the second-year students fared better.
- In the weekly departmental meetings issues related to these students during mentoring were discussed. Some examples of the recommendations given to teachers includes- teachers were requested to go a little slow while speaking to these students as they found it difficult to grasp. In another instance, the teachers were requested to give extra time for the completion of written assignments to first-year students who had problems comprehending and articulating in the English. This was observed more in the case of Malayalam medium students.
- An effort was made to bring them together to study problem-based papers on campus with assistance from teachers and a few senior students (supplemental learning) who were good at the subject. It was observed that this group study helped them in looking at each other's notes and getting their doubts cleared. Buddies were identified from their own classes to help them with any doubts regarding the subjects or any other thing. They became friendly with their seniors during meetings and so took help from them too. At the end of each semester their scores in all subjects were taken note of and they were advised and helped accordingly. Students who had attendance issues were constantly monitored and mentored and helped to sort out the same.

- Students attendance monitoring: Department follows a strict attendance system. Attendance is taken through TCS. Each month department analyses the attendance of each class and enquired about the shortage in attendance. In the case of regular missing of classes strict actions were taken. Messages were forwarded to the parents regarding the absence of student in the class immediately. All these make students more punctual.
- Mentoring by class teacher: Class teacher for each semester acts a mentor and guide to the students. Last hour of every Thursday acts a mentoring session for every class. Class advisors guide and advice the students to resolve the problems in their personal and student life. Apart from this, mentor meets their mentees individually and tries to bring out their worries. Mentor tries to resolve the issues that students faced through convenient ways.

Mentoring groups were formed under various mentees during the academic year 2021-22. The details of the students and allotted mentors are given below:

6) SPECIAL COACHING PROVIDED FOR SUPPLEMENTARY EXAMINATION

Special coaching was given to second year students writing supplementary examination by faculty members so that they can clear the examination with confidence. The support was extended outside class hours in the months of December 2021 and January 2022. Whatsapp Goups was specially formed for that purpose and notes and audio classes were distributed to the students.

The department of Political science provides supplemental learning systems and additional support enrichment to students. There are two essential components of the system; peer tutoring and the role of advanced learners are facilitating supplemental learning. These initiatives aim to foster a conducive learning environment that caters to the diverse needs of students and promotes collaborative learning within the department.

7) EXTENSION AND OUTREACH ACTIVITIES

In the ever-evolving landscape of political dynamics and civic engagement, the role of a political science department extends far beyond traditional classroom teaching. Extension activities are essential in bridging the gap between academic knowledge and real-world application, fostering a more comprehensive understanding of political processes and societal issues. The major Extension and Outreach activities by the Political science department in the year 2021-22 in its adopted village in the fourth ward of Kottakkal Municipality is given below:

CLEANING OF POLLUTED KAVATHIKULAM POND

The Kavathikulam Pond, located in Kottakkal Municipality has long been suffering from severe pollution due to various anthropogenic activities. Recognizing the urgent need for environmental action, a group of college students in the leadership of First Semester Political Science students of Kottakkal Farook Arts and Science College, on December 10, 2021 initiated a cleaning campaign to address the pollution issues plaguing the pond. This report documents the process, outcomes, and impact of the student-led cleaning initiative.

Objectives:

- To remove pollutants and debris from Kavathikulam Pond.
- To raise awareness about the importance of environmental conservation.
- To foster community engagement and participation in environmental initiatives.

The student group formed a planning committee to organize the cleaning campaign. Tasks included securing necessary permissions, arranging equipment and materials, and developing a schedule.

The cleaning initiative commenced with volunteer students gathering at the pond. Teams were assigned specific areas, and safety guidelines were emphasized. Participants collected and removed litter, plastics, organic waste, and other pollutants from the water and surrounding areas.

Throughout the cleaning process, students engaged with local residents and passersby, raising awareness about the importance of preserving water bodies and reducing pollution. Educational materials were distributed, and discussions were held on sustainable practices.

Programme Outcome

- Students will gain a deeper understanding of environmental issues, particularly related to water pollution and its impact on ecosystems and communities.
- Engaging in the actual process of cleaning the pond provides students with practical experience in environmental conservation efforts.
- Working together on a project like this fosters teamwork and collaboration skills as students coordinate efforts to achieve a common goal.
- Participating in such a project can lead to personal growth, increased self-awareness, and a sense of fulfillment from contributing to a meaningful cause.

Conclusion:

The student-led cleaning initiative of Kavathikulam Pond exemplifies the power of community-driven environmental action. Through collaborative efforts, the students not only made tangible improvements to the local ecosystem but also inspired greater awareness and participation in environmental conservation. Moving forward, it is essential to sustain the momentum generated by this initiative and continue working towards the restoration and protection of natural resources for future generations.

FOOD DISTRIBUTION TO POOR PEOPLES IN 4TH WARD, KOTTAKKAL MUNICIPALITY

On March 10, 2022, the Department of Political Science, in the leadership of second semester Political Science students, organized a food distribution event in the 4th Ward of Kottakkal Municipality. This initiative aimed to provide support to economically disadvantaged individuals and families facing food insecurity, particularly amidst the challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic.

EVENT: Food Distribution to Needy Individuals in 4th Ward, Kottakkal Municipality

Date: March 10, 2022

Organized by: Department of Political Science, Second Semester Political Science Students

Objectives

1. Alleviating Food Insecurity: The primary objective of the food distribution event was to provide immediate relief to economically disadvantaged individuals and families in the 4th Ward who were facing food insecurity.
2. Community Engagement: Another key objective of the event was to engage with the local community and raise awareness about the issue of food insecurity and poverty within the municipality. By organizing the food distribution in a visible location within the 4th Ward, the initiative sought to draw attention to the challenges faced by vulnerable populations and foster empathy and solidarity among residents.
3. Promoting Social Justice: The food distribution event was also driven by a broader commitment to promoting social justice and equity within the community. Recognizing that access to adequate food is a fundamental human right, the initiative aimed to address systemic inequalities and advocate for policies and programs that support the most marginalized members of society.

Distribution Activities:

1. Food Procurement: Prior to the event, arrangements were made to procure homemade lunch from all students of the department by the fifth semester students.
2. Volunteer Coordination: A team of volunteers, comprised of second-semester Political Science students, was organized to assist with various aspects of the food distribution process, including packaging, transportation, and distribution. A designated distribution site within the 4th Ward was identified and prepared to facilitate the efficient and orderly distribution of food items to beneficiaries.
5. Distribution Process: On the day of the event, volunteers worked diligently to package and distribute food items to beneficiaries, ensuring that each recipient received a sufficient quantity of essential groceries to meet their immediate needs.

Outcome:

The food distribution event received a positive response from both beneficiaries and community members, with many expressing gratitude for the assistance provided during challenging times. The initiative helped alleviate immediate food insecurity for numerous individuals and families in the 4th Ward, demonstrating the impact that collective efforts can have in addressing social and economic challenges.

Conclusion:

The food distribution event organized by the Department of Political Science and second-semester Political Science students exemplifies the spirit of community service and solidarity in times of need. By coming together to support those facing economic hardship, we reaffirm our commitment to fostering a compassionate and inclusive society where every individual has access to the resources they need to thrive.

8) EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING PROGRAMME

Apart from class room learning our department arranges other learning programs in order to provide practical experience to the students. We follow a systematic pattern for encouraging the experiential learning. In every semester, except in first and sixth semester, we organize experiential learning Programme. Each faculty holding the concerned paper conducts the Programme very systematically with proper guidance. Apart from this various other tasks were also assigned to the students like book review, seminar presentation, etc.

In the final semester students have to do their project works individually under the guidance of concerned faculty. Regular presentation of the progress of their work will be conducted by the department. All these will be carefully scrutinize to avoid the errors.
